

It's Your Right
To Know

It's
Our Duty
To Inform

The Colonnade

April 5, 1974

Georgia College, Milledgeville, Ga.

Volume 57 Issue 19

Jan Foskey Captures Crown In Miss GC Pageant

An aggregation of lovely lasses was seen Saturday evening as eight hopefuls walked and performed before an admiring audience for the seventh annual Miss Georgia College Pageant. After grueling weeks of preparation and rehearsals and last minute rush jobs, "On Top of the World," under the supervision of Miss Harriette Donahoo and Miss Angie Berry, was ready for production March 30.

The eight contestants during the final week's preparation, although harried, maintained an air of cooperation and cheerfulness. During that time the girls learned how to walk across stage, stand, turn, be scrutinized, and, most important of all, smile. One contestant stated that the learning to smile constantly was the hardest part of the contest.

Saturday afternoon a tea was given in honor of the young ladies and in order for them to meet the judges for interviews. The results of these interviews are tallied with those of the evening gown competition. (Incidentally, the different facets of the competition count as follows: Evening gown-interview — 25 percent; Swimsuit — 25 percent; Talent — 50 percent.)

Mr. Jim Wilmoughby and the GC Stage Band provided entertainment at various spots in the program as well as accompanying the girls and volunteer members of the GC Mixed Chorus in the pageant's theme song "On Top of the World."

In addition to the title of Miss Georgia College, awards are given for Miss Congeniality, swimsuit and talent competition winners, and second and first runners up.

Miss Congeniality is chosen by the contestants themselves and is the girl whom the majority feels best exemplified friendliness and cooperation throughout the duration of pageant preparations. This year's Miss Congeniality was Susan Jones, a junior Business Education major from Atlanta.

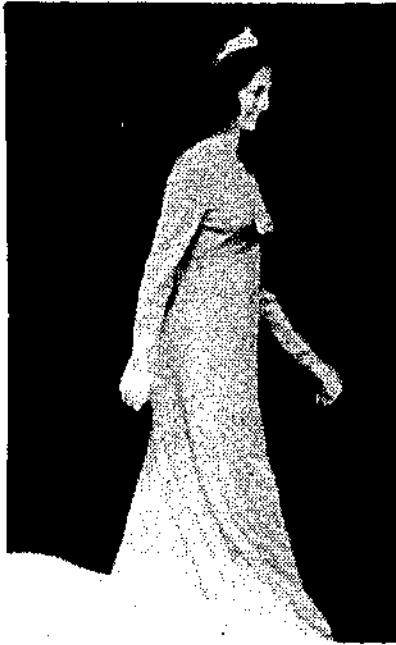

Janie Hostetter, a freshman music major from Tucker, Georgia, was recipient of the talent award. Her talent consisted of a rendition of a parody to Handel entitled "Old Mother Hubbard."

Winner of the swimsuit competition was Joy Lynn Smith, a Maconite with a leaning toward fashion

Marketing as a major. Prior to the announcement of the finalists, Angie Berry delighted the audience with "My Way" as a summation of her past year's activities as she took the last walk of her reign as Miss Georgia College 1973.

Of course the main event of the evening was the crowning of Miss GC. There seemed to be some dispute among the judges, however, as to voting results. The three finalists were revealed to

Continued On Page 7

Angie Berry, incumbent, begins her final walk as Miss GC.

Foskey awaiting the final announcement.

Mayer Speaks On Nutrition

"Twenty-five million Americans do not have the resources to feed themselves decently," said Dr. Jean Mayer, a Harvard nutritionist, recently in a lecture at Georgia College.

This despite the fact that 17 million in the U.S. now participate in an improved food stamp program.

Appearing as the final speaker in the Georgia College Lyceum series, Dr. Mayer lectured on the topic "U. S. Nutrition Policies in the Seventies" and discussed during his talk policies affecting nutrition and poverty, nutrition and health, and nutrition and the consumer.

Among the 25 million Americans who do not eat properly because they lack the funds to purchase the proper foods are many of the elderly and most of the poor, Dr. Mayer noted.

"Until the civil rights movement of the sixties, the poor had been fairly invisible in the U.S.," said the speaker. "If you didn't want to see them, you didn't have to."

Unless those in the lower income brackets became very sick, they were not apt to receive any medical attention at all, Dr. Mayer stated, simply because the poor who became malnourished could not afford normal medical care until it was almost mandatory that they be hospitalized.

The civil rights movement, he said again and again, was the agent responsible for bringing to the attention of many that there were many including the poor of all races in the U.S. who were malnourished, hungry, and unable to feed themselves.

Concerning senior citizens in our society, Dr. Mayer remarked, "The U. S. has always been a hard country for the elderly" and cited as one reason the mobile nature of many Americans who often leave their parents to fend for themselves. Another reason, he mentioned, was the fact that there are many poor pension systems in the U.S. that force employees to stay with a company or lose all pension rights only to have companies sometimes go out of business and have employees see those rights perish with the firm.

Dr. Mayer noted that the present school lunch program, an improved version of an older scheme, had now been extended to nine million children (from three million) but that another million children needed to be fed by the program. He also called for a greater emphasis on feeding those same youngsters during the months when schools were not in session and for an increase in the "meals on wheels" or free meal programs for the elderly who are not able to afford higher food prices.

The speaker, who directed the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition, and Health in 1968, said that food programs for the elderly were much more humane and made much more sense economically than letting senior citizens become malnourished and then having them put in a hospital for $100 a day or a nursing home for $30 a day.

In that connection, Dr. Mayer said that $94 billion had been spent on health services (hospital expenses, hospitalization, those in the medical profession, and medicine and drugs) since 1970 but that even this expenditure of money had not increased the life expectancy of the average male by more than a month over the past three years.

The Harvard educator pointed out that the U. S. had dropped among the nations of the world in life expectancy for males of 20 in the past 20 years. In 1950, the U. S. ranked 11th among the nations of the world in male life ex-pextancy. In 1970, it ranked 36th. The nation ranked 23rd in 1970 in life expectancy for women.

In the area of nutrition and health, Dr. Mayer said that Americans consume three times as much protein as they need, that three billion dollars were spent last year on advertising by the food industry (most of it for food of little value), and that today's mothers are "being blackmailed by a combination of children exposed to TV" and by supermarkets that put foods of little nutritional value (sugar-coated cereals with prizes, etc.) on lower shelves for offspring to dump into the market basket.

Looking into the future, Dr. Mayer said that the present tight situation in the nation's food supply could be made worse by an expected drought in 1975 (droughts have appeared on the average of every 20 years in the U.S.) and that a world-wide drought could have a catastrophic affect on the world's food supply.

Food stocks in the U.S. are at the lowest level since 1950, he explained, while the world's population has doubled since that year.

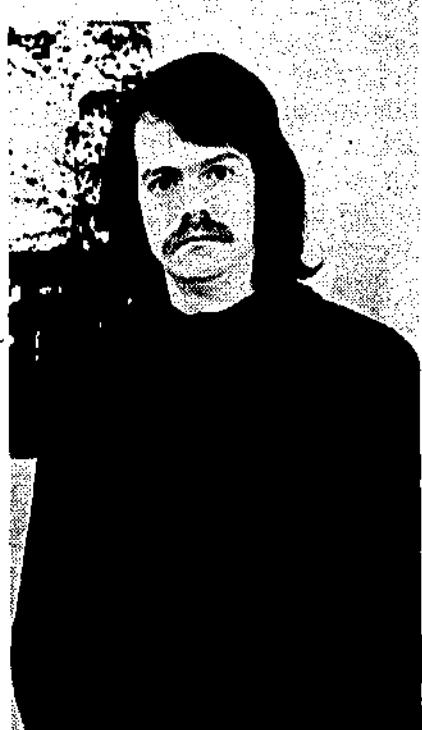

The Harvard professor predicted that Americans would be eating more textured foods in the future — those with mixtures or food extenders — and foods with lower fat content.

He also stated that the U. S. government must take a greater lead in insisting on standards of identity, nutritional labeling, unit pricing, and open dating — measures that would help a customer know what he is buying.

"There is absolutely no point in teaching nutrition in high schools and colleges unless that teaching can be translated into a language known to the customer," he related.

Photos Shown At GC Library

David Payne, a public relations specialist and photographer at Central State Hospital, is shown here beside one of his black and white photographs to be exhibited in the Ina Dillard Russell Library at Georgia College from April 7 to April 27. Payne, a 1972 graduate of GC, worked for the Joe DeGrandis Photography Studio and WCWB-TV in Macon before joining the CSH information staff and was editor of the college yearbook, The Spectrum.

David Payne

Dear Editor

Dear Editor,
Recently authorities investigated a burglary of the Pin-Ball machines in the Maxwell Student Union. The Pin-Ball machines were placed in the Maxwell Student Union sometimes during last quarter for the we, the students of Ga. College for us to pass free time away, whenever we have any free time. More on with the facts. A faithful GC student reported the break in of the machines and immediately reported it to Miss Donehoo, the assistant Dean of Student Activities; then-on proper authorities were brought to the scene and investigated the burglary. If you have ever been into the room where the Pin-Ball machines were kept for our enjoyment you would have seen posted signs on the walls with the fact that any damage to the Pin-Ball machines or any other machines in this room will be automatically closed and will not be in use again.

Obviously some individuals flat don't give a — about the pleasures that are provided for us GC students or they don't believe that the rules that are posted or will be enforced.

So may be the answer that the reason this stupid individual broke into the Pin-Ball machines

'cause he needed the money is still not an acceptable one. The question still lies; Whodoneit? and why the — they did it?

Also, I have seen many individuals in the S.U. that have a tendency to Gamble. To my knowledge this "gambling" is strictly against the rules of the state of Georgia. Gambling is going on in the Student Union and this is a fact well known to myself. Are these individuals not aware of what the penalty is for gambling in the state of Ga.? They should be, is all I can say.

Is the administration of Ga. College aware of all the — that goes in that sacred place known as the Maxwell Student Union? They should be...

Sincerely,
Xerona May Johnson

Dear Ms. May,
You questioned the point as to whether GC facility and administration were aware of the illegal happenings here on campus. If they were not, I'm sure they are now.

As to the reason why these activities have been occurring, only the persons involved know for sure. However, in my personal opinion, these acts are those of immature delinquents, trying to "impress" their peers.

The question is, how far should we go to impress others? Certainly not to the point of breaking the law.

The Editor

It's Still A Man's World

Despite impressive progress in recent years, women have a long way to go before they achieve equality of opportunity in employment, education and training, career advancement and pay.

A recently-published ILO report, "Women Workers in a Changing World," says the world is still largely a male-dominated society. It notes a marked tendency everywhere to recruit on the basis of sex rather than qualifications, and that the unproven myths about women's abilities persist.

Among the measures called for in the report is "a more equal sharing of the burden of housework and the care of children between men and women" as a starting point.

Beyond that, the document urges equal pay for equal work, as set forth in the ILO's Equal Remuneration Convention of 1951 and ratified by 78 member states.

The report also notes that, while women's social and biological function of reproduction must be fully protected, women should not be penalized in the job market because they are mothers.

Although statistics do not reflect the situation accurately because of differing definitions of "economically active" persons and a general exclusion of unpaid family helpers, it is estimated that the female workforce participation rate ranges from a low of 30 per cent in some African countries to as high as 50 per cent in the USSR and Romania. In Eastern Europe generally, women make up about 40 per cent of the total workforce, and 30 to 40 per cent in Western Europe and North America.

THE COLONNADE Troupe Shows

How To Succeed . . .

Tickets went on sale Monday, April 1, for the Georgia College Student Government Association production of the hilarious Broadway hit "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," to be staged at the college on April 19-20.

Opening night on Broadway on Oct. 14, 1961 produced the raves about the musical play that were to keep "How to Succeed" running for 1,418 performances.

About the play, Howard Taubman of the New York Times said, "Let Wall Street and Madison Avenue tremble as the rest of us rejoice."

Sincerely,
Xerona May Johnson

Dear Ms. May,
You questioned the point as to whether GC facility and administration were aware of the illegal happenings here on campus. If they were not, I'm sure they are now.

As to the reason why these activities have been occurring, only the persons involved know for sure. However, in my personal opinion, these acts are those of immature delinquents, trying to "impress" their peers.

The question is, how far should we go to impress others? Certainly not to the point of breaking the law.

The Editor

Athletics-Which Way From Here

In the past year, Georgia College has attempted to join the ranks of "big time" schools in athletic competition. Or has it?

Where is Colonial Parade going? For a school of less than three-thousand it would seem to the semi-avid reader of the sports page that we are making ill use of the miserly public private donations that G.C. receives.

Should we just try to maintain a team on all levels of athletics or should we go the route of many other small schools and specialize in a particular area or areas? Take a look at National Continued On Page 7

Red Tape Cut

Habib Abdul Goudarzi, a graduate student in business administration at Georgia College from Iraq, the year-long wait for his college transcript is over. Ordinarily, a transcript from a college or university outside the U.S. takes a week or two to reach the college, but because the U.S. and Iraq do not maintain diplomatic relations, the wait was a year. Goudarzi's request for his transcript from the University of Baghdad, where he completed his studies for an undergraduate degree in 1968, involved considerable complication.

To obtain the transcript, from a nation with no diplomatic ties with the U.S., the GC graduate student began by asking the Belgian embassy in Washington for help. The Belgian embassy in the nation's capital then relayed Goudarzi's request to the Belgian embassy in Iraq via the diplomatic corps' home office in Brussels, the capital of Belgium.

In Baghdad, the Belgian embassy's third secretary drove to the office of the university's registrar for a copy of an official transcript of Goudarzi's undergraduate studies for transmission to the U.S.

The process of getting the transcript from Baghdad to Milledgeville was not quite as complicated as the original request for the document, according to college officials.

Goudarzi came to GC in the fall of 1973 after a stopover in Spartanburg, S.C. where he attended Spartanburg Junior College and Wofford College for two years and where he was employed by a florist.

In Spartanburg, Goudarzi's brother is a consulting mechanical engineer at Lockwood-Green, Inc., a national engineering firm.

According to Dr. Bobby Joe Dooley, Goudarzi's major professor, the native of Iraq is making excellent progress in the pursuit of his M.B.A. degree.

APRIL 5, 1974

APRIL 5, 1974

When I Am Alone

When I am alone upon my bed
I wonder if I'll lose my head
The things I love for right or wrong
Will never last, they will all be gone
I hope my life will be meaningful to someone
Because it is the only one I have to offer.

Ron Purcell

Win On

The baseball team is on the move
Our Colonials are getting on the groove
They're on home plate, ready to run,
One player yells, "Damn it, I want some fun!"

The pitcher says here we go,
We're gonna show the Colonials what we know.
There goes the ball right to the bat
TWAM! It's a Homer!
The action is going and fans begin to yell—
OK, Colonials give 'em Hell!

Sure enough as you will see
Colonials are the winners,
And win is what they will do
They are victorious and strong
They will be victorious all season long.

Spirit

Wool

Wool is plentiful at Georgia College
But I can't get it
In spite of this knowledge.

Some is good
Some is bad
Some feels like
Brillo soap pads.
Some wool is virgin
But that pretty rare
Some wool smells
And foul up the air.

I like wool
It's my favorite dish
Except when I get some that smell like a fish.

If you like wool
and want to hear more
Come to Beeson—
Second Floor.

Woolhunter Mitch Freeman

January 21, 1974

Stormy—
It isn't a melange of crossed feelings nor an argument I caused.

Storming—
Thunderbolts, sharp lightning and rain
Remind me of Love.
Strong-Undefinable, yet making its presence known,
Infinitely precious.

Storms—
Come at a time when the soul needs washing clean.
And the drops of God's tears rain down
Upon my upturned face. I love storms—
And you.

Tunder—
God's voice
Deep Loneliness
Hope.

Lightning—
Passion of both mind and body.
Angry passion because of simpleminded jealousy and Unjustness...And Hurt.
Hurt when a cake is uneaten,
You can't have your cake and eat it too.

Knowing that you love with Lightning penetration and without physical guilt.

You love-now you must trust.
Help me trust-Give me reasons.
Love.

THE COLONNADE

PAGE 3

The Starlight Tree

If you look real carefully in a midnight summer sky,
A falling star of ruby light may chance to catch your eye.
And if you should decide to follow as the Midnight Zephyr blow,
The falling star will lead you to the meadow where the Tall Tree grows.

The Tall Tree has a slender stalk that reaches for the evening sky;
Her leaves of lace are whispering, the gentle words float low and high.
She feeds upon the passing breeze and starlight from the crystal sky,
And when she whispers to the stars, the starlight twinkles in reply.

The Tall Tree bears a fruit of stars that sparkle on each slender branch,
And every crystal light thereon will lead you to a soothing trance.
And e'en in the cold, damp fog of sorrow cannot mask the joy of light
Her lights of love remain to sprake through the deep-black, satin night.

A yellow light may flicker by, Hey, little lost star from far-out space,
Little light, no need to cry; the tall tree saved your special place.
The Tall Tree loves all little things and keeps them safe within her bark.
Her leaves of lace are whispering, a Lullaby floats through the dark.

Lights of Love, sparkle, sparkle, sparkle through the clear, black night.
Hear the Tall Tree sing a song, her lacen leaves all giving light.
Lights of Love, sparkle, sparkle, sparkle through the clear, black night,
As it is and always was, her crystal lights grow ever bright.

Sometime, someplace far away, a lonely little flower cries, and even though it's a long, long way, the Tall Tree hears and she replies:
The Tall Tree sends one shaft of light, one single, shimmering, golden ray,
So that one sad and lonely bloom can have a special happy day.

And in the icy wintertime when sparkling ice crops coat her leaves,
The ice drops glimmer, dance, and shine with light the Tall Tree Happily weaves.
The joy that makes the tall tree grow, that makes her happy, makes her sing,
The joy that makes the Star Tree grow, is giving joy to other things.

Now, every little particle, from atoms small to largest star,
The Tall Tree cares about them all, no one too near, no one too far.
And when you see a shaft of light streaming through some far-out place,
You can be sure the Tall Tree sent it just to brighten one sad face.

Oh, give the Tall Tree all you can, let's send one special silver light,
To make her slender roots grow stronger through the deep-black satin night.
The Tall Tree, with her crystal lights, has melted all the fog away
So with the stars and sky above we'll let her have a better day.

Lights of love, sparkle, sparkle, sparkle through the clear-black night.
Hear the Tall Tree sing a song, her lacen leaves all giving light.
Shine a light, Shine a light, shine it through the clear-black night;
Feel the Tall Tree lots of love, as she has done with crystal light!

Henry Z. Zidwell

Ecstacy

How sweet the music sounded.
That night not long ago
When you were at my side
To hear it gently flow.

I noticed your eyes were shining
I ran my fingers through your hair
I kissed and made love to you
And had no thought or care.

And gay or said the usic
And regardless of the times it repeats
I know but only one thing
Twas you that made it sweet.

Because I'm sitting where we've sat
And tonight I'll lie where we've lain
It wakes my heart, but thrills it
With sad and mysterious pain.

It feels not so joyous
As when you were here with me
Wrap up in the ecstasy of each other
We created our own sweet music.

Because you are there and I am here
Separated only by miles
I will think of you through bittersweet tears
And smile.

Mary K. Driskell

The Colonnade

SUELLEN GRIGGS

Editor-in-Chief

JOHN WILLIAMSON

Business Manager

KEITH JONES

Sports Editor

COPY EDITOR

Photographer

Cartoonist

Staff Reporters:

Mark Smith, Ginny Boyer, Jan Dillard, Sherry Gray, Lynn Johnson, Jeanette Lewis, Patty McCormick, Paul Milton, Ron Purcell, Ann Strom, Trude Tharpe, Gary Yawn, Mitch Freeman.

Bridals by Harrold's Distinctive Wedding Fashions and Formal Complete Bridal Service 106 W. Hancock

PAGE 4

THE COLONNADE

APRIL 5, 1974

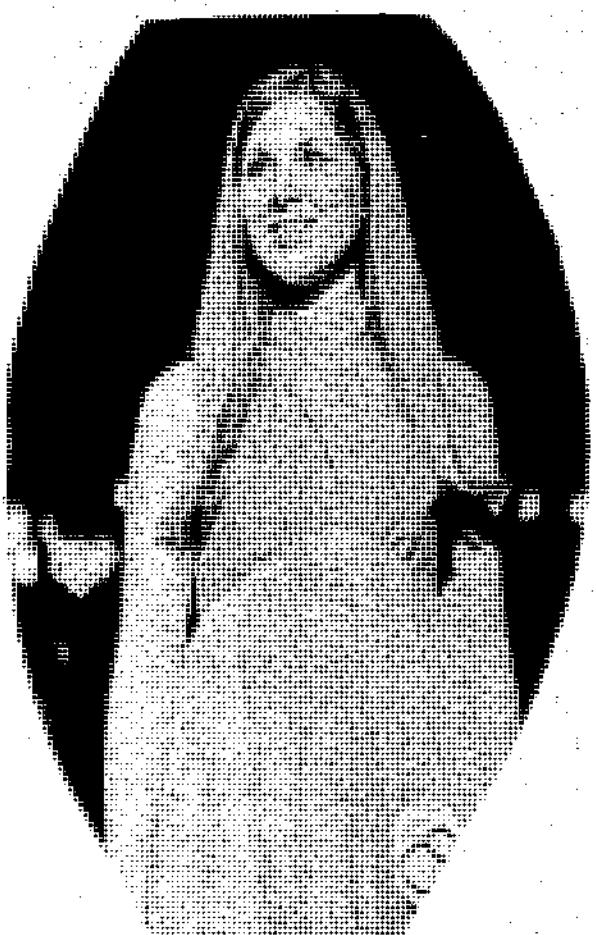

APRIL 5, 1974

THE COLONNADE

PAGE 5

Beverly Dixon

Jan Foskey,
Miss Georgia College 1974

Kathy Marcum

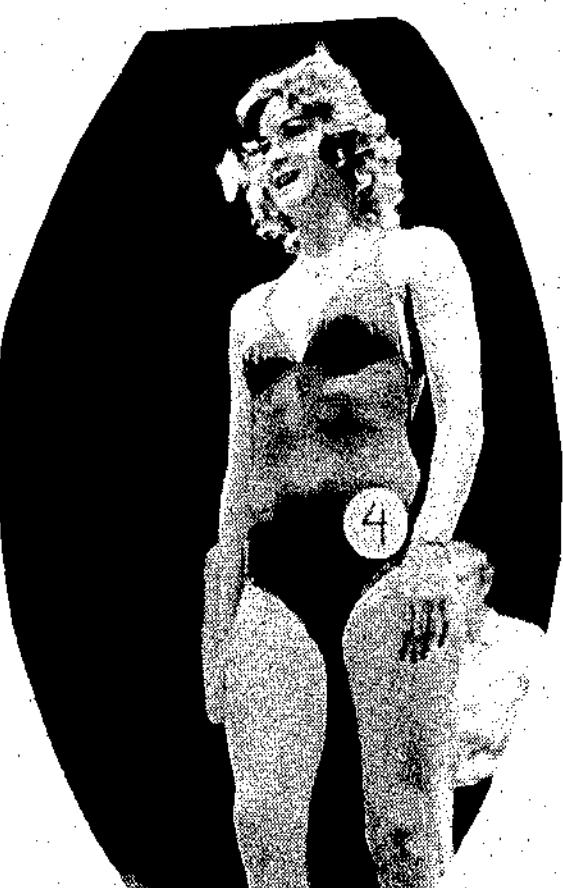

Suellen Griggs

Marilyn Simmons

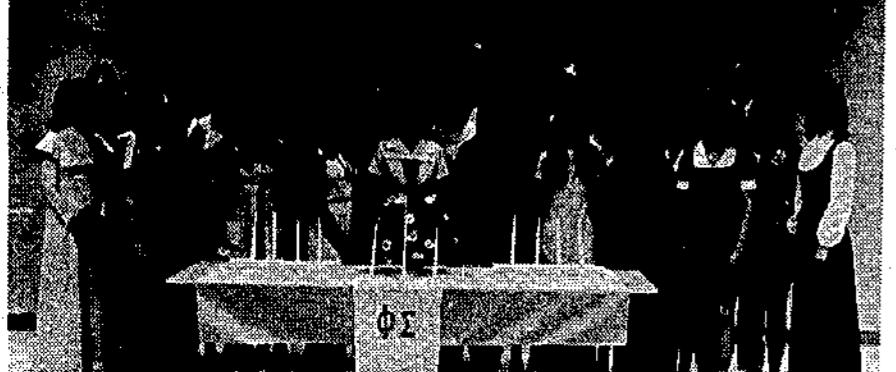

Joy Lynn Smith,
2nd Runner-up, Swimsuit Award

Susan Jones,
Miss Congeniality

Jannie Hosteter,
first runner-up Talent Award

Phi Sigma Initiation

Recently, 24 new members were initiated in the Phi Sigma Sophomore Honor Society. The qualifications for membership are a 3.0 average and Dean's List at least once during the student's freshman year. The advisors for the society are, Mrs. Elisabeth Anthony, who is retiring at the end of this year, was given a small gift during the ceremony. The initiation was very elegant even down to the lighting of the candles. The Society was very fortunate in having Dean Simpson as the spokesman for the initiation. The officers for Phi Sigma are Doraine Reynolds, Bob Porter, Linda Baily, Mary Ann Woodall, and Lynn Wilcox.

Senate Notebook

by Frank Howell, CGA Vice-President

There are a number of Senate positions open in this election, hopefully there has been a good response in petitions. The Committee operations of the Senate are in a state of much improvement and are prepared to undertake the workload awaiting them. On March 27th, there were two private bills passed, qualifying candidates for the upcoming election of Male Co-Chairman of Honor Council. These candidates are: Don Thrasher, and Philip Lamb. Both were questioned by the Investigative Committee, chaired by Pat Oliver, as to their position on judicial procedure. There was also a Senate bill, no. 101, submitted that dissolved the relationship between AGAPE and the College Government Association. This legislation was sent to the Student Activities Committee, headed by Steve Potts. There was also a movement to hopefully eliminate the lack of adequate record-keeping in the Senate that hindered them so much in the past.

WANTED: Anyone with Video-tape equipment experience.

Sunday, April 17; Worship Service

"IS NOW THE TIME TO RUN?"—

By Don Thrasher

Special Music by the ACTS

RETREAT TO EPWORTH—By

the Sea—on April 19 thru 21.

Money Due to Don Thrasher By

Monday April 8. The Cost is only

$10.00.

Job Placements

Our recruiting schedule is for the Senior or Graduate only as these representatives are seeking permanent employees.

April 10, 1974
Mr. Harlon Crim of the Marietta Public School System, on campus from 9 a.m. thru 4 p.m. - Appointment Schedule posted in Education Building.

April 15, 1974
Mr. W. D. Fincher, Metropolitan Insurance Company, on campus from 9 a.m. thru 3 p.m. Appointment schedule posted on Bulletin Bd. beside Placement Office, 205 Parks Hall.

April 17, 1974
Mr. Vareo Noel, Allstate Insurance Company, on campus from 9 a.m. thru 3 p.m. Appointment Schedule posted on Bulletin Board beside Placement Office, 205 Parks Hall.

April 23, 1974
Mr. Harold Hall, Merit System, State of Georgia, on campus 9 a.m. thru 3 p.m. Appointment Schedule posted on Bulletin Board beside Placement Office, 205 Parks.

April 25, 1974
Bibb County Schools of Macon, Mr. Dewell Pitts, recruiter, on campus from 9 a.m. thru 3 p.m. Appointment Schedule posted on Bulletin Bd. in Education Building.

April 25, 1974
Mr. Gordon Gibbs, McGaw Laboratories, on campus from 9 a.m. thru 4 p.m. Appointment Schedule posted on Bulletin Bd. Beside Placement Office, 205 Parks.

April 30, 1974
Mr. J. L. Lynch, S. S. Kresge Company (K-MART) on campus from 9 a.m. thru 4 p.m. Appointment Schedule posted on Bulletin Bd., 205 Parks Hall.

May 1, 1974
Mr. Leon F. Silver, president of the auxiliary.

For information and applications, call Mrs. Silver at 355-

6790 or write to Mrs. Leon F.

Silver, 575 Spring Valley Road,

N.W., Atlanta, Georgia 30318.

HAVE YOU STARTED YOUR PLACEMENT FILE SENIORS???

Grads Continue ACM

Students in eight Southern states including Georgia can now enroll on a resident tuition basis in selected graduate programs in other states, according to information recently received in the graduate studies office at Georgia College.

The arrangement, which will become effective this fall, is made possible through the Academic Common Market, a project of the Southern Regional Education Board. The interstate agreement provides for the reciprocal sharing of academic graduate programs.

Students from participating states will have access to master's or doctoral degree work in such fields as African history, home economics, radio astronomy, water pollution ecology or nuclear engineering—to name a few of the program entries.

Thus far, Alabama, Arkansas,

Continued On Page 8

THE COLONNADE

Greeks Take Independents

Thursday March 21, the Georgia College Drummers Club sponsored an All-Star basketball game between the Georgia College Greeks and the Independents. The purpose of the event was to raise funds for the Georgia College Drummers Club.

The girls (sororities) game was close all the way with the Greeks winning 18-17. Marty Banks led all scorers with nine points, Martha Lumpkin had four, Susan Hale three, and Gail Ford two. Pam Varner and Arlinda Woodward led the Independents with six points each, Luann Duran had two, Donna Harrington two, and Terry Meadows one.

The mens (fraternities) game was hard fought all the way with plenty of action. The Greeks won 77-68. Scoring was led by Sam Massey who led all scorers as well as the Greeks. Massey had twenty-six points, John Cagle had sixteen, Larry Hunt ten, Tom Boswell nine, Roy Lane, Keith Jones and Bruce Geidner had four each, Randy Edwards two and Artie Traynor had one. Larry Anderson led the Independents with sixteen points, Mike Brown had twelve, Paul Brooks ten, John Carrick and Willie Griswold had eight, Don McCale six, and Steve Bowers, Al Messer, Barry Bruner, and Ben Curtis had two points each.

Learning With SGAE

It is to our great sorrow that not everyone knows what SGAE is. Well, let us introduce ourselves properly.

SGAE stands for Student Georgia Association of Educators. Any person in an education field is eligible and asked to join. There are local, state, and national levels to participate. A Texas native, he received his B.A. degree and his M.A. degree from the University of Texas and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan.

In 1961, Dr. Moeser received a Fulbright grant to study at the State Academy of Music in Berlin. Before returning to America, he studied French improvisatory and interpretative art in Paris.

Dr. Moeser has also done advanced research on French Baroque performance practice.

His visit to GC was sponsored by the local chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Posture Pays

Applications are now being accepted for the 1974 Georgia Miss Queen of Posture Pageant to be held May 3, at the Hilton Hotel in Macon, Georgia.

All applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 22 with no previous marital status and in good health.

The contest is an annual event sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Georgia Children's Chiropractic Center.

Dr. Mildred K. Lee is co-founder and director of the center and Mrs. Leon F. Silver is president of the auxiliary.

For information and applications, call Mrs. Silver at 355-

6790 or write to Mrs. Leon F.

Silver, 575 Spring Valley Road,

N.W., Atlanta, Georgia 30318.

THURSTON, in 125 A of the Language building.

BYRD, served as student

chairman of the 1973 organ

students' mini-convention held

last April in Atlanta.

BYRD is a 1969 graduate of

Seneca High School.

Want to send a friend something? We'll mail it! Come by—We've always got something playing—if you can't stop by—you can phone 452-5834

LETTER SORORITIES, THE LETTER DELTA IS USED MOST; AND IN FRATERNITIES, THE LETTER PHI.

TRANSLATED, DELTA MEANS "IN LOW PLACES" AND PHI MEANS "MUD-FORMED."

Organist Speaks

Dr. James Moeser, chairman of the University of Kansas organ department, spoke to the organ master class at Georgia College on Tuesday, April 2, in GC's Russell Auditorium.

Dr. Moeser lectured on learning, memorizing, and practicing.

A Texas native, he received his B.A. degree and his M.A. degree from the University of Texas and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan.

In 1961, Dr. Moeser received a Fulbright grant to study at the State Academy of Music in Berlin. Before returning to America, he studied French improvisatory and interpretative art in Paris.

Dr. Moeser has also done advanced research on French Baroque performance practice.

His visit to GC was sponsored by the local chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Organ Recital

An organ recital will be presented by Roger Byrd of Seneca, S.C. on Monday, April 15, at 8 p.m. in Russell Auditorium on the Georgia College campus.

Byrd, son of Mrs. Nadine Poore of Seneca, is a senior music major scheduled to graduate in December. He came to GC in January, 1972 from Shorter College.

Byrd served as student

chairman of the 1973 organ

students' mini-convention held

last April in Atlanta.

Byrd is a 1969 graduate of

Seneca High School.

Want to send a friend something? We'll mail it! Come by—We've always got something playing—if you can't stop by—you can phone 452-5834

APRIL 5, 1974

111 W. Hancock St.

Between Nash's and

the Diana Shop

New Cowboy Album $3.99

All At Fair

Prices!

Guitar Strings-Picks-

Candles Etc.

111 W. Hancock St.

Between Nash's and

the Diana Shop

New Cat Stevens $4.99

Want to send a friend something?

We'll mail it!

Come by—We've

always got something playing—if you can't stop by—you can phone

452-5834

111 W. Hancock St.

Between Nash's and

the Diana Shop

New Cat Stevens $4.99

Want to send a friend something?

We'll mail it!

Come by—We've

always got something playing—if

you can't stop by—you can phone

452-5834

111 W. Hancock St.

Between Nash's and

the Diana Shop

New Cat Stevens $4.99

Want to send a friend something?

We'll mail it!

Come by—We've

always got something playing—if

you can't stop by—you can phone

452-5834

111 W. Hancock St.

Between Nash's and

the Diana Shop

New Cat Stevens $4.99

Want to send a friend something?

We'll mail it!

Come by—We've

always got something playing—if

you can't stop by—you can phone

452-5834

111 W. Hancock St.

Between Nash's and

the Diana Shop

New Cat Stevens $4.99

Want to send a friend something?

We'll mail it!

Come by—We've

always got something playing—if

you can't stop by—you can phone

452-5834

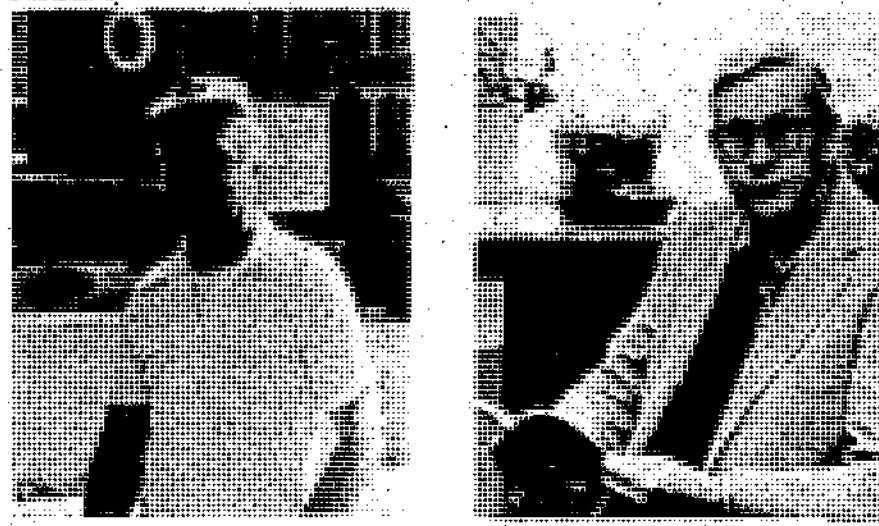

111 W. Hancock St.

Between Nash's and

the Diana Shop

New Cat Stevens $4.99

PAGE 5

Will Dr. Joseph Specht and Dr. Ralph Kickliter ever make it to Hollywood? Who knows? One thing is for sure, they will learn "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" on April 19 and 20.

Tarzan In Milledgeville

The other day, to my surprise, I discovered our firemen of Milledgeville are just as human as the rest of us. They have a sense of humor, and the desire to be "hams."

I was leaving GC's Nursery School Wednesday morning when I heard a blood curdling cry that sounded much like the yell of Tarzan. Yes! Turning in the direction, my eyes focused upon a man in blue standing atop the fire station on the roof. Once again the manly call was heard. (A little on the squeaky side, but that's beside the point).

My curiosity was aroused to no end. Why was the man on the roof? And why the Tarzan routine? Continuing to "case" the situation, my questions were soon answered.

The fireman was removing fallen limbs from the wind storm the night before. Several other firemen were looking on from a safer level (the ground). "Tarzan" continued his fun and games, perching on the edge of the roof in a position much similar to that of a swan diver. Even at my great distance, I could hear the laughter and edging on from the men below.

Much to my dismay, my presence was sighted by the star of the day. He waved thereby causing the others to turn and wave. I must admit, I felt as though I had truly interrupted one of their "hard day's projects." Hating to intrude, and knowing my class met in 5 minutes, I hastened on. However, the memory of our firemen's humor will always stay with me. It just goes to show that a smile brightens the day for anybody. No matter what it is they have to do.

Front Campus Rolled.

Monday morning brought about an unusual change on front campus with the "ornate" decorations in the trees. One would almost think it was Christmas once again. Who and why it was done is unknown to the majority of the student body. Obviously, it was one of those "one the minute decisions" under inebriated conditions."

2 Miles North of Holiday Inn
on Georgia Hwy. 441
Phone : 452-6103

Open Weekdays & Sunday
1 to 6
All day Saturday-Closed Monday

THE COUNTRY STOREHOUSE

Arts & Crafts

Hand Made Gift Items
from over 40 Artists

THE COLONNADE

Nurses Cap 70

Mrs. Renee Etheridge, director of nursing services at Coliseum Park Hospital in Macon, was the guest speaker at a recent capping ceremony for students in the Georgia College department of nursing education's class of '75. The ceremony was at the First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Etheridge spoke on "A Nurse's Commitment to the Nursing Profession."

The invocation was given by Rev. Norman R. Waldrip, pastor of the Mosleyville Baptist Church and greetings were extended by Dean William Simpson of Georgia College.

Seventy students are members of the class of '75, with 68 being on hand for the capping ceremony.

Miss Catherine Summerlin, director of the department of nursing education, assisted by Mrs. Mary N. Cook and Mrs. Wendy Glawson of the department, capped the students.

APRIL 5, 1974

Your Change

The C.G.A. Book exchange was project in the coming year. held March 21, 22, and 25 was termed a success by Roy Lane, few students still hadn't picked up their money or books. He said these students can pick up their money or books Thursday, April 11th, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Room 130 of the Maxwell College Union (C.G.A. office).

New Courses Come To GC

Five non-credit courses will be offered during the current spring quarter at Georgia College, with classes beginning the week of April 15.

Course fees will run from $15 to $25. Classes will meet for two hours each week on Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday nights.

Courses scheduled for the eight week period are intermediate guitar, basic photography, fundamentals of management, basic salesmanship, and an office practices refresher.

The guitar class will be taught by Andy and Linda Stanford of Milledgeville. John DuBose, a Milledgeville photographer, will teach the photography course. The other three courses will be taught by GC faculty members.

Complete information can be obtained from Robert Watkins, director of adult and community services at the college.

No educational prerequisites are required for any of the courses.

Informal Christian
Science Group
Meetings, Sunday,
11:00 A.M. at 301 West
Montgomery 452-7651

"Shake It Up Baby"

Twist Hits Hall

by John Williamson

Recently Napier Dormitory of Georgia College was the scene for a Sock Hop. The "sock hop" was given by Larry Duke, President of the Hall. Residents of the dorm were asked to dress in the style of the '50's and '60's. Believe-it-or-not several of the residents had the nerve, gumption, and the sense of humor to dress in this popular style.

Things really started hoppin' when a dance contest was held. "At the Hop" was played for the contest and six couples were selected by applause to participate in the dance-off finals.

Mitch Freeman and Denise Edwards (pictured above) won

Continued From Page 6

Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee have joined the Market. The participation of Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia is tentative but expected in the next several weeks—pending, in some cases, only the almost certain ratification of the agreement by state legislatures or boards of trustees.

The programs in which residents of a participating state can enroll depend upon their state's arrangement. Under the Common Market agreement, each member state puts a number of its programs in a "market pool" and then arranges for its residents to have access to out-of-state programs not offered in its own institutions.

As Dr. William Hovenden, who directs the regional administration of the program, phrased it, "It is not only impractical and expensive, but also nearly impossible for any single state to provide the full array of programs required to meet the diverse higher education needs of its citizenry."

On the other hand, by offering highly specialized programs to out-of-state students at in-state rates, participating institutions will increase enrollments in such "uncommon" programs which, in many cases, have the capacity for additional students.

Dr. Hovenden compares the arrangement to that of the airlines industry, which for years has offered tickets on a standby basis at a reduced rate to fill flights.

As a result of the Common Market, additional education opportunities will be available to many students, and existing programs in the Southern region will be more efficiently utilized—all at a savings to the students, institutions and taxpayers.

Posters, soon to appear on campus, will indicate the names of state coordinators, who will provide information about application procedures. Additional information is now available from the Office of Graduate Studies in Parks Hall at GC.